

Women's Dating Restrictions Decided By AWS; Every Nite Out For All With 3 Standing

All Freshmen and Transfer Women Required To Attend Convocation Monday
A. W. S. Rules

PROMINENT WOMEN OF CAMPUS TO SPEAK

Charm School Has Again Been Organized To Aid Co-Eds

A rule has been passed by A. W. S. allowing all sophomore women with a standing of 2 or over for the past semester to have one date night a week, juniors, two nights a week, seniors, three nights a week, and students with a standing of 3 every night out.

Frances Sadler, president of A. W. S., will introduce the presidents of Cwens, Mortar Board, W. A. A. Y. W. C. A., Phi Beta, Phi U. Strollers, Suky, Theta Sigma Phi, Chi Delta Phi, and the various interest groups on the campus at a compulsory convocation to be held at 5 p. m. Monday in Memorial hall. A brief description of each organization and its projects for the coming year will be put forth in an effort to gain the interest of all new women.

Short talks will be made by Mrs. Lebus, head of the Woman's building; Mrs. Collins, supervisor of Patterson and Boyd halls; Mrs. Holmes, assistant Dean of Women; Miss Cowan, secretary of Y. W. C. A.; and Mrs. Giles, dietitian of Patterson and Boyd halls. Miss Blanding, Dean of Women, will be unable to attend.

A. W. S. blotters and rule books, explaining the functions of the organization, will be given out to all women students who have not received them.

At its first meeting of the year Wednesday afternoon in Boyd hall, A. W. S. ruled all Freshmen and transfer women would be under compulsion to attend convocations. Plans were made to sponsor a series of six lectures to be made on the "Preparation of the Coed for Marriage," and a charm school for all girls who might be interested.

An award to the organized house making the highest scholastic standing for the first semester will be given by the organization and an attempt will be made to better the libraries of all sorority and town houses.

It was agreed that the parties and open houses at the Woman's building should continue throughout the year.

Those present at the meeting were Dean Blanding, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Lebus, Joyce Roberts, Eleanor Mills, Virginia Ferguson, Mary Ellen Saunders, Mary Elizabeth Koppus, Margaret Young, Ruth Johnson, Bebe Chauvet, Ruth Ritchie, Runelle Palmer, Julia Hall, Jessie Whitfield, Anne Lang, Frances Sadler, Sarah Ransdell, Jane Otter, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Giles, and the sorority house mothers.

Keller Returns To Duties After Extended Leave

Dr. Wayne Hicks Keller, on sabbatical and extended leave since June, 1935, studying chemical spectroscopy at Cornell University, has returned to his teaching duties on the University's chemistry staff.

In his research at Ithaca, N. Y., Doctor Keller studied with and worked under Prof. F. H. Spedding, 1922's recipient of the Junghaus Prize presented by the American Chemical society for outstanding discoveries in the field of the rare earth metals.

Keller received his doctor of philosophy degree last June. He wrote, along with Professor Spedding and J. P. Howe, a thesis entitled "Energy States of Praseodymium Sulfate," a treatise which attempts to explain and to determine by spectroscopic methods the internal structural arrangement of this rare metal and part of the general problem of understanding the structure of matter.

"Though this work is the essence of pure theoretical knowledge," stated Doctor Keller, "often such investigation accidentally extracts worthy and applicable information for the public's welfare. Michael Faraday was just putting about when he stumbled upon and opened up the field of electronics."

First Meeting Of Women's Club Held

Mrs. Frank L. McVey was hostess at the first fall meeting of the University Women's Club Tuesday afternoon at Maxwell Place. Newcomers eligible for membership were special guests.

Featured on the program was John Jacob Niles, authority on mountain ballads, who presented a recital of American folk music. It included ballads, carols, nursery rhymes from the Southern Appalachian mountains, and negro spirituals. He played his own accompaniment on the piano and dulcimer.

Mrs. McVey was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. James W. Martin, club president, and members of the executive and social committees.

Love's Forgotten Will Find Solace In Campus Date Post

It's here at last! You probably read about it in the "K" book and were a trifle dubious, but the University Dating Bureau is actually becoming a reality. Sponsored by the YMCA, YWCA, AWS, and the Deans of Men and Women, the bureau is to be put into operation as soon as a sufficient number of students have registered and expressed their desire for dates with members of the opposite sex.

The dating bureau service will be absolutely free to all university students who are registered with the bureau. Registering begins at noon today at Patt Hall and the YWCA for women and at the YMCA for men. Men, as well as women, must be registered in order to apply for dates.

To register, a student must furnish a photograph of himself or herself, and give the following information: Name, address, phone number, height, weight, class, age, color of eyes and hair and any special interest which he or she may have, such as dancing, riding, sports, etc.

The photograph and information will be placed on file and will be strictly confidential, no one having access to the files but the registrars. Students may apply for dates by phoning the bureau and specifying the type of date desired. The registrars will endeavor to fulfill the requests as nearly as possible. However, the fact that a girl or boy is registered does not mean that he or she must accept every date offered them through the bureau.

All dates secured through the bureau will be "dutch." That is, regardless of who requests the date, women will pay their own way, as well as the men.

The bureau is being organized in an attempt to bring together men and women students of the campus who are unacquainted with members of the opposite sex but who desire to make social acquaintances.

STAFF AUTHORS RECENT REPORT

Prehistoric Discoveries Of Funkhouser, Webb Printed; New Archaeological Site Investigated

A report describing prehistoric discoveries made in Henry county, Kentucky, by Professors Funkhouser and Webb, of the University, has recently been published by the departments of anthropology and archaeology.

Until the discovery of the Chilton site three and one-half miles east of Campbellsville, which is made the archeological subject of this report, there was only one known archeological site of any importance in the county.

Under the direction of John L. Buckner, also of the University and to whom the authors of the report give entire credit for the material reported, a party was organized which thoroughly investigated the site during the summer of 1936 and made discoveries of great archaeological interest.

A total of 30 burials were found, all in graves of similar construction and in groups of from two to eight. The groups were widely separated from each other, and each constituted a natural unit for investigation and report. Four of the units were especially interesting due to the fact that they contained two layers of burials, one above the other, the bodies being separated by limestone slabs.

The total number of artifacts discovered on the site was not great. Of the 30 burials only seven had articles of any kind. Among these were two gold jewelry which had been ground to a flat surface on the lower edge, two strings of beads made from incisors of elk, an elbow pipe of sandstone, and three ear shaped gorgets. No pottery of any kind was found.

CLARK IS ELECTED FACULTY SECRETARY

Prof. T. D. Clark, of the history department, was elected secretary of the faculty of the College of Arts and Science at the first 1937-38 meeting Monday afternoon.

It was also announced by Dean P. P. Boyd that full attendance of all Arts and Science faculty members is necessary at a meeting of the assembly at 4 p. m. next Thursday. Heads of departments are especially urged to be present.

PATTERSON GIVES SHOW
Oscar Patterson from Iliou, N. Y., freshman in the college of Arts and Sciences, gave a lecture and demonstration of marionettes before the Rotary Club of Lexington yesterday. Patterson is a professional marionetter of two years experience and was formerly with the Pall Mall troupe of Indiana.

Students Asked To Report Address Changes

Monday, October 4, is the last day that changes of address may be reported for the Student Directory. Changes must be reported to either the office of the Registrar or the Alumni office before the above date.

CHEER LEADERS NAMED BY SUKY

No Women Named To Group; Plans For Dance Discussed And Concessions Awarded At First Meeting

Official appointment of three new cheerleaders for the ensuing year were made Tuesday afternoon at Suky's first meeting of the semester. They are: Rowland Lamb, Manuel Schofman, and Elwood Stephenson. Contrary to the recent custom, there will be no girl cheerleaders appointed this year.

Plans for a dance to be held in the near future were discussed and the following committee appointed to make arrangements: Curtis Baumgardner, Alice Wood Bailey, and James Quisenberry. No definite date has been secured for the dance.

Howard Jones, custodian of the Alumni gymnasium, was granted the soft drink and candy concession for all college dances to be held in that building this semester. Concessions for refreshments on Stoll field during the football games have not yet been awarded.

Sweaters for the new members taken in last spring have been ordered, it was announced by James Salter, treasurer of Suky.

M'Vey Addresses Faculty Members At First Meeting

Introduction Of New Staff Members Opens Assembly

Speaking before the bi-annual meeting of the faculty staff yesterday afternoon in Memorial hall, Pres. Frank L. McVey emphasized the obligations of that group to the University.

The meeting opened with introductions of new faculty members to the old staff, following which Dean Edward West reported on insurance plans, and Professor Frank Murray explained the purpose of the University Credit Union.

Dr. McVey titled his address "Obligations to the University." One of the first requisites of a faculty member, he pointed out, is to know his University. He added that this includes not only the knowing of other staff members and buildings on the campus, but the University regulations drawn up by the Senate and the Board of Trustees.

"It doesn't require long for one to be teaching something which is 15 or 20 years old," he stressed, speaking of the teacher's obligation to know his subject. It is necessary for an instructor to keep in constant touch with his students, his subject, and the University, he said.

Another point brought out was the need of the faculty to help organize and recognize University functions. "They should take an interest in student affairs and try to see his viewpoint."

"So I welcome you to a year which I trust will be the greatest in accomplishments in the history of the University," President McVey said in conclusion.

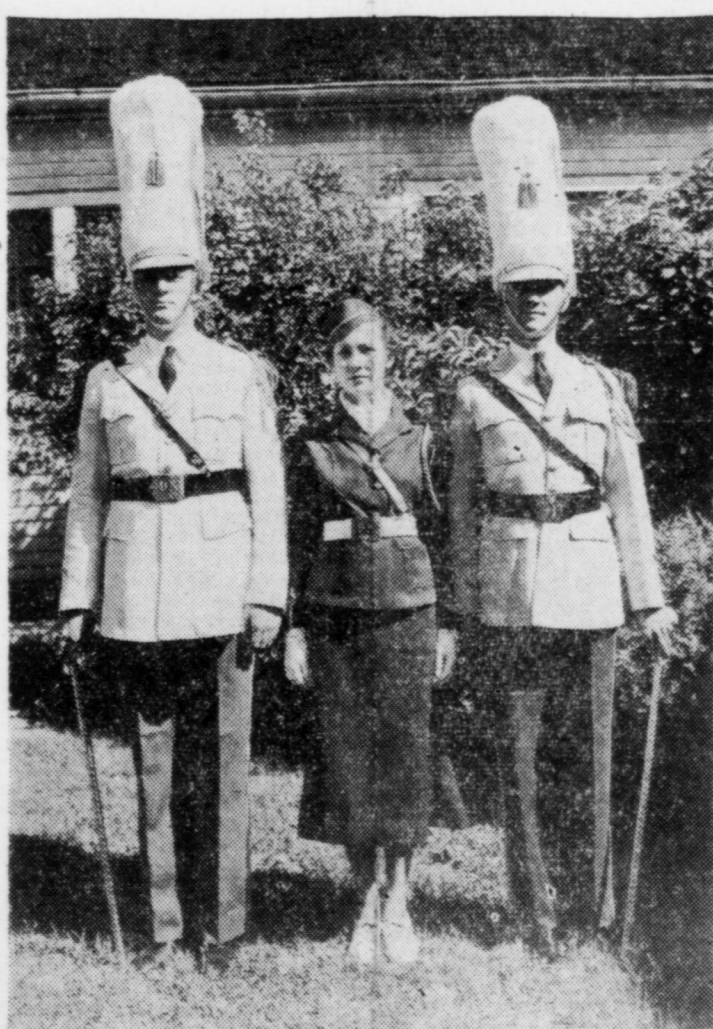

Cooper Addresses Freshman Assembly

Dean Thomas P. Cooper spoke yesterday at the freshman assembly of the College of Agriculture, held at Memorial hall. L. J. Horlacher, assistant to the dean, presided.

Enrollment of the agriculture college is the largest in its history. Dean Cooper pointed out, with an increase of approximately 100 per cent over that of six years ago. With a total registration of 530 men and women, 200 in the home economics department and 330 in the agriculture, it is evident that careers within the fields of agriculture and home economics are being increasingly sought after.

Prof. George Roberts, head of the agronomy department, was introduced to the group.

DRUM MAJORS AND BAND QUEEN

"Best Band In Dixie" To Travel Along With Wildcats To Xavier

Membership Of One Hundred Makes This Year's Band Largest Ever To Carry U. K. Colors

By CLIFF SHAW

Crossing the Mason-Dixon line for the first time in three years, the University's "Best Band in Dixie" will blow its Southern rhythms for the benefit of "Naw-th'n" ears when it accompanies the football team to Cincinnati Saturday for the game with Xavier University.

One hundred strong, the musicians will clamber aboard buses at 8 a. m. Saturday morning and will arrive in Cincinnati in time to parade through the downtown section at 12:30 p. m. They will make their headquarters at the Sinton hotel.

Batoned by drum majors Berkley Bennison and Bruce Sullivan, and beautified by sponsor Betty Bakhaus, the band will entertain on Corcoran field during the halves of the game, making its usual block and script letter formations for the benefit of the "paying customers." Among the formations will be "Hello Cincy," "Cats," "St. X," and "UK."

Handling the pistol shots, which are very important to the success of the band maneuvers, is Quartermaster George Duncan. It is by his signals that the band breaks from one formation to another.

A new instrument in the band this year is the bell lyre, which is destined to attract a goodly share of attention. Played by musician Frank Goodfriend, its dulcet tones ring out above the deeper notes of the brasses and reeds and lends a pleasant effect to the martial music.

The enrollment of the marching band this season is one of the largest in university history. Last year's aggregation being composed of only ninety pieces.

University Bulletin Makes Appearance

Weekly Calendar Of Events Is Sponsored By Journalism Department

The first issue of the University bulletin, a weekly calendar of events sponsored by the department of journalism, was sent to all departments on the campus Monday.

The bulletin lists all events of interest to the University and comes out once a week.

All information for the bulletin should be sent to the department of journalism or called in to University 135 before 10 a. m. on Friday.

The bulletin editors for this year are Marjorie Rieser, Leslie Lee Jones, and S. Louise Calbert.

GRADUATE RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP AWARD

Jack Yarbo, graduate student, was awarded the Graduate Resident and Board Scholarship at Columbia University last week. After returning from a year's trip in Europe, he registered in the graduate school of the University but has now transferred to Columbia to work on his masters degree.

Mr. Yarbo graduated in the class of 1936 with a major in romance languages.

Coeds To Hold Dance October 8 At Patt Hall

All men on the campus are cordially invited to attend a dance to be held Friday, October 8, from 8 to 11 p. m. at Patt hall under the auspices of the Patt, Boyd, and organized house girls.

Music Department Starts Girls' Band

Practice Is Held On Tuesday And Thursday In Art Center

An all girls' band has been organized by the music department to fill a need long felt by the women music majors. John Lewis, who will direct the group, it was announced yesterday.

Membership is not limited to music majors, however, and any girl who is interested is invited to join the organization. Practice is held at five p. m. every Tuesday and Thursday in the band room at the Art center.

Girls who have already joined are: Gladys Kilpatrick, Virginia Thorp, Ina Mae Wallace, Elizabeth Tillet, Anna Sue Hollandsworth, Virginia Rowland, Martha Wryrick, Esther Breeden, Frances Tuttle, and Carolyn Sigler.

Space Utilized By Installation Of Heating Plant

Since the installation of the central heating plant here, the department of buildings and grounds has found it necessary to remove the old boilers in the various buildings on the University campus.

The work of tearing out these boilers was begun this summer and much needed space has been utilized in this manner: Frazee hall, McVey hall, and President McVey's home have all had the boilers removed and work will begin in the near future on the training school service building, experiment station, dairy products building, stock pavilion, Boyd hall, Alumni gym, library, Norwood hall, by M. J. Crutcher, superintendent and the old heating plant.

EX-GRAD ASSISTANT GETS MED SCHOOL JOB

A former graduate assistant in the department of physiology here, Miss Grace Birge, has accepted a graduate assistant's post in the department of physiology at Western Reserve Medical school in Cleveland.

Miss Birge is co-author of a paper to be published in the November issue of the Journal of Nutrition on the "Effect of Excessive Vitamin A on the Oestrous Cycle of the Rat." The work for this paper was done for her master's degree under Doctor Sherwood, of the physiology department here.

Wildcats Move Northward; Meet St. Xavier In Annual Pilgrimage To Cincinnati

State Education Meeting Held; McVey, Ligon Represent U.K.

Dr. Frank L. McVey and M. E. Ligon represented the University at the meeting of the Council for Higher Education in Kentucky held Tuesday in Frankfort.

The Council, which meets several times a year, considered matters relating to the certification of teachers, extension classes, and correspondence courses.

Important changes were made Tuesday's meeting. It was decided that, beginning September 1938, 24 semester hours for a major and 18 for a minor will be required before a provisional high school certificate will be given. In commerce a student must complete a minimum of 26 semester hours. Professional requirements for home economics colleges were reduced from 18 to 15 hours.

Matters concerning institutional budgets were also considered and the council appointed a committee to give special consideration to budgets. This committee is to be called sometime in the future. There was some discussion of elective summer terms.

This Council is a legal body set up under the law to consider problems of higher education, especially those pertaining to the training of teachers, and consists of all presidents of institutions, the members of their boards and dean of the College of Education.

Representatives from other colleges were: Dr. Raymond Kent and Dean Oppeheimer, University of Louisville; Dr. Donovan and Dean W. C. Jones, Eastern State Teacher's College; President Paul Garrett and Dean Finley Grise, Western State Teacher's College; Dean James H. Richmond and Dr. H. A. Babb and Dean William Vaughn, Morehead.

Women Artist Group To Entertain Locals

Phi Beta To Present Three Recitals And String Trio Selections

Members of Phi Beta, women's honorary music and dramatic fraternity, will present a program for the Lexington Junior McDowell club this afternoon.

During the program Miss Marjorie Jenkins will play as a piano solo Debussy's "Reflections in the Water." As a vocal solo, Miss Elizabeth Ballard will sing Homer's "The House That Jack Built." Miss Mary Ann Stiltz will offer a reading.

Also included on the program will be a string trio composed of Miss Virginia Thorp, violinist; Miss Virginia Rowland, cellist, and Miss Elizabeth Rhet Tillet, pianist. The trio will play two selections, Rubenstein's "Romance" and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Tri-State Tour By Geologists Very Successful

Dr. A. C. McFarlan, Prof. D. M. Young, and eight geology students collected several rare specimens of mineral and ores while on a two weeks tour in the Tri-State district of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma this summer.

Those unusual specimens were found mainly in caves formed in the limestone rock and discovered in the process of mining. The most beautiful pieces are unusual formations of sphalerite, calcite, dolomite, and galena which are now on exhibit in the Geology museum in the Administration building.

Occasionally, mining operations were held up to allow the geologists to get the specimens from the caves. Professor Young said that about a ton of material was shipped here from the Tri-State district containing the finest specimens ever collected by the geology department.

Magazine Is Edited By Band Director

John Lewis, University band director and president of the Kentucky band and directors association, is the new editor-in-chief of The Southern Musician, which was released Wednesday, September 29.

The Southern Musician, a professional music journal which appears monthly for musicians of the South. This is the first copy of the journal that Mr. Lewis has edited. Included in the last issue are many interesting articles which musicians will find full of information.

FOLEY ACCEPTS POSITION

Miss Elizabeth Foley, graduate in medical technology in the Class of 1936, left yesterday to accept a position as medical technologist at the King's Daughters hospital, Ashland, Ky., according to a statement by Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the department of bacteriology.

Tonight's Hop Last One Until October 8

Tonight's all campus hop, the last until October 30, will be held from 8 to 10:30 o'clock in the Alumni gymnasium. The Troubadours, a Frankfort orchestra, will furnish the music and there will be the usual six no-breaks. Admission will be twenty-five cents per couple.

STROLLERS TO HOLD TRYOUTS

Collegiate Musical Show To Be Presented In November; Auditions To Be Held In Memorial Hall

Auditions for parts in the Strollers collegiate musical show, "Of All Things," to be presented late in November, will be held in Memorial hall at 3 p. m. Wednesday, October 6. The comedy is authored by Naunerle and Dorothy Ann Calhoun, libretto, and by Power Prichard and Bebe Chesauvet, music.

Parts are open for those who can sing, dance, play musical instruments, or do speaking parts. Any student of the University is eligible to try for a part.

Positions are also open in the costume, scenery, lighting, and publicity departments. For the latter work students are requested to contact Miss Joy Edgerton at the earliest possible opportunity. There is a charge of thirty-five cents, as in past seasons, for tryouts in the dramatic department.

A meeting of all Strollers will be held on Monday, October 4, at 3 p. m. on the second floor of the Administration building.

AWS ORGANIZES NEW MUSIC CLUB

Are To Teach Choral Singing For All Students Interested; Social and Music Enjoyment To Be Main Feature

Under the auspices of the Association of Women Students, the new choral club, its first meeting at 3 p. m. last Tuesday in the Art center. From all indications the first meeting was a success, and pleased the consultants, Prof. C. A. Lampert, Miss Mildred Lewis, and Dr. Willem van de Wall of the music department.

All women students interested in the art of choral singing are urged to attend, whether they have had experience or not, as the club is still open for membership.

Purposes of the club are to foster interest and skill in group singing and choral leadership, and to give the student a cultural background. Election of officers will take place in the near future, as the choral organization will be conducted in the same manner as a club.

Experience in this club also will help to qualify a singer for glee club membership. Social and music enjoyment will be one of the features of the club.

Faculty To Receive List Of New Books

A select list of the new books added to the University library each week will be mailed to members of the University faculty staff, according to an announcement yesterday by Miss Margaret Tuttle of the library staff.

This service, which was suspended several years ago, but is now being resumed by the library, is designed to keep the faculty informed concerning new material that is added to the library during the year.

A complete and official list of all new books cataloged each week will be posted on the bulletin board near the reference department.

GRADUATE GETS UK POST

A graduate of the commerce class of '36, the first graduating class of that college, H. B. Moore is now associate professor of economics in the university department of commerce.

Moore has been assistant chief of the Marketing Research division and the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the U. S. department of Commerce in Washington for the past three years.

Kentucky, Never Whipped In Cincy, Tackle Musketeers On Corcoran Field, 1:30 p. m. C. S. T.

THREE SOPHOMORES MAY BE IN 'CAT LINE

Bob Davis, In Gaining Streak, Ready To Cut Loose For Wynness

By GEORGE KERLER
Kernel Sports Editor

Kentucky's Wildcats make their annual pilgrimage to Cincinnati tomorrow when they square off the St. Xavier Musketeers on Corcoran Field at 1:30 p. m. Lexington time.

In each of the last three years the Wildcats have visited in the Queen City and on each occasion the Kentuckians have come home with Cincy scalps. Blue Grass opinion is optimistic and has made plans for a victory. Yet word comes from the banks of the Ohio that Xavierphiles are offering 2-1 on the Musketeers.

A regiment of 'Cat rooters are expected to be on hand tomorrow inasmuch the Wynnessmen are tackling only 80 miles from home instead of last week's 235 miles. Next week Kentucky meets Georgia Tech on the Stoll playground.

Getting back to this Saturday's match, the Saints, according to press reports, will play with the strongest aggregation in Musketeer history. Already they have trampled Transylvania, 43-0, in a touchdown party held last week in Cincinnati. What glory there is in accomplishing that, St. Xavier has.

Kentucky on the other hand bowed in their season's bow with Vanderbilt, though much can be said in defense of the 'Cat defeat. What the Bluegrassers learned in that ambush, will go far in helping them compete with the remainder of their schedule.

In all probability, if the turf is fast, Kentucky's backfield will take an airing in the wide open spaces of the Musketeer secondary. Bob Davis, in Wednesday's scrimmage gave flashes of his old self, cutting through the line with savagery and in that ambush, will go far in helping them compete with the remainder of their schedule.

His brother, Dameron, has just about recovered from his knee trouble and might be ready to start the game alongside of brother Bob. Dameron has taken it easy up until this mid-week, when he began to cut loose and show signs of the brilliant back he is.

Either Simpson or Hodge will get the fullback nod. Bessemer Red also has a loose knee which has slowed up his play in general. Hodge showed well in the Vandy game.

Dick Robinson and Joe Shepherd will direct the defense from the back role, with Robbie probably getting the kickoff call.

The Vanderbilt mud party definitely proved that three sophomores are almost assured of regular work. Ed Sydnor and Tom Spickard, at guards, were standouts in that game and Luke Linden, the Blue Diamond (Continued on Page Five)

Kampus Kernels

All freshmen interested in trying out for the freshmen team are requested to report to Bobby Evans, varsity tennis captain, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon on the tennis courts.

Block and Bride will meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, October 4, at the Agriculture building. Plans for the freshmen agriculture party will be discussed.

Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history fraternity, will meet at 4 p. m. Monday, October 4, in the Woman's building.

The B. S. U. council will hold a business meeting at 5 p. m. Friday in the Woman's building. Members are asked to be present and bring a visitor.

There will be a compulsory convocation for all new women students at 4 p. m. Monday afternoon, October 4, in Memorial hall.

Men students assigned to part time under N.Y.A. may work extra hours if they like. If they are not paid this month, the extra hours can be counted on next month. The first work month ends October 9.

There are not more than a dozen parking spaces left on the campus. Late students wishing to register cars should do so at the office of the Dean of Men at once. Fines will be imposed on those parking without permit.

There will be a meeting of Lamp and Cross Tuesday night at the Phi Delta Theta house. It is important that all members attend.

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

Teaching The Faculty!

some newsworthy information to a KERNEL reporter provokes the following remarks.

At the dawn of each school year THE KERNEL is in the hands of a completely new staff, green in spots and competent in others. Occasionally, a budding reporter will cover his beat, get a story replete with scientific data, and inadvertently distort it slightly in his recording. Upon reading it in the paper, the department which released the facts quietly condemns its school news vehicle and mutely vows "never again to give THE KERNEL another story."

When a professor or a department assumes this myopic attitude, THE KERNEL editors look askance. How, if this University is a training ground for life's battles, is a student to learn how to write and to interpret news when the campus news makers lock the doors of printable matter?

There have been complaints that at times THE KERNEL's reporters are crude, and careless. These characteristics might individualize a young campus journalist. But certainly, a University faculty man or woman should overlook such imperfection and blame it on youth. If a faculty man or woman considers a KERNEL reporter untrustworthy, then he should take special pains to see that the recorder gets the facts in a layman's language. Much reportorial shortcoming is traceable to the lofty, technical remarks the news-giver serves with his story.

Other complaints from professors frequently sift into this paper's editorial offices. Some claim there is a lack of news. Others state it is loaded with trivia. But critical teachers are usually ones who refuse to communicate to the University's newspaper information of interest to the student body and the state.

THE KERNEL can be a successful conveyor of news from every department. If one campus faction prohibits its work and progress to be reported in THE KERNEL, then its readers may rightly conclude that the department is stagnant.

On the surface THE KERNEL may seem at present loose and collegiate. Yet its history spans more than 25 years of faithful service to the University. Its plant is worth $45,000 and is entirely self-supporting. It has paid to working students $49,000 in 12 years. It has done as much as any University organization for the students. Its circulation carries it from California to South Africa. It has praised and assisted in the success of many projects prevalent on the campus. And it can hammer into oblivion, forces objectionable to the pursuit of happiness and knowledge.

From now on, THE KERNEL shall consider any faculty flippancy and disrespect a backhanded slap on the face of the University's people.

Thank You, Lexington Herald, Leader

ON BEHALF of the student body, THE KERNEL sincerely wishes to express its appreciation to The Lexington Herald and Leader for the admirable courtesy shown the students by placing in the University library bound files covering nearly half a century.

This material is valuable not only for historical research but also because it gives students ample opportunity to get information directly preparatory to many courses of study, thus furthering professional training.

Since the room in which the files are to be kept will not be completed until the latter part of next week, the library staff requests that the students do not use the files until they are made available for such use.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

IT SEEMS THE inevitable lot of columnists the world over to write at least one short-short story during their lifetime. We have chosen today to write ours because we do not like having a thing like that hanging over our head.

SORORITY LADY

(A short-short story complete in this column)

Margie was sophisticated all right. This was her first year in college and she had already joined a sorority with a "perfectly adorable" name. She was dating a half-back whose long runs were just "too thrilling," and all her professors were "old darlings."

She was sitting in a downtown restaurant the day she first saw Larry, that is when she really saw him. She had heard of him of course, everybody who was anybody had heard of Larry. He danced well, no, divinely, and he had dark hair and he was built like Apollo himself. When he looked at a girl she fell like a plummet.

Well, like I say, she saw him and she "just had to meet him," or else she'd "just die." She managed an introduction at a house dance one night and when I saw them both leaving, I felt like running after her and telling her about Larry, about his thirty-two pins and his reputation, but someone offered me a drink and I forgot it. The next time I saw them together they were looking into each other's face and murmuring something about "Mackaws flying into the sunset." This sounded a little like the real thing to me, for some reason or other, so I left the place.

They ran around together for about three months, with Larry dating no one else and laying off the liquor like a regular bluenose, and I was actually beginning to believe that he was in love with her when Larry's steady, or the nearest thing he had to a steady, blew into town from up-state. I immediately washed my hands of the affair and sat back to watch the fireworks.

The next thing I knew, Larry's other girl, the one from up-state, was living in the same sorority house with Margie. I thought I ought to warn the poor kid, so I ankle over to the Alpha Delta house to spill the beans. The kid met me at the door and asked me to come in. After I had settled down into the divan about a foot, I got up enough courage to tell her. She took it like a champion and said she thought I better go before there was a scene and I practically fled.

Nothing happened for about a week and I was figuring that maybe they had settled the whole thing without bloodshed, and then I picked up the paper one morning and saw where Larry had gotten married.

Choose your own ending for this story:

- (1) Margie persuaded him to forget the girl from up-state.
- (2) The girl from up-state persuaded him to forget Margie.
- (3) A tall man with a shotgun persuaded him to forget both of them.

The Campus Gossip

By CHARLIE GARY

The best mix-up of the year in from the Tri-Delt house. It seems as if Delt Britt Alderman was at their open house Sunday, and was introduced to Ruth Stewart, who had a red dress on. Well, Britt made a date with Ruth and then wandered away. A few minutes later he had forgotten her name. So he asked the girl he was dancing with who the girl in the red dress was. The only person the girl saw in a red dress was Frosh Betty Sowards. So she gave Britt Betty's name. When the nite of the date came, Britt walked into the triple D house and asked for Betty Sowards. Betty really lives in Lexington so the good sisters gave him her address. He promptly calls at Betty's house and the poor little freshman doesn't know what it is all about. Meanwhile Ruth Stewart is patiently waiting. Betty then calls her big sister and asks her what to do. She immediately tells Betty to go and have the date. Poor Ruth! The moral of this story is to always wear a red dress to catch a bewildered Delt.

Sigma Nu Bill Conley had a date with that lovely Alf Gam pledge Pat Robinson Monday nite. Or rather he was supposed to have a date. Anyway, when he called for her there was no date. Bill claims that he stood her up while the Sigma Nu's say that he was the goat. Wonder who stood who up?

Oh, to be a good looking football star! Perhaps the best fan letter ever written was received by Bob Davis the first of the week. It was from a Science Hall class who states that her room is filled to the ceiling with newspaper pictures of the dashing half-back from Dayton. Also, the letter, which is very nicely perfumed, describes herself as "a very hot number" and that the only thing in life which she craves is an autographed picture and a long letter from "Teeny Grand." Also from other parts of the letter Bob would do well to drive down some Sunday afternoon and take a look at this ardent admirer.

People are beginning to wonder how Kay Dee Jean Ann Overstreet keeps a Delt and a Sigma Chi both on the string without them finding each other out. She was seen Wednesday at one o'clock with Paul Smith, and then a two with Jerome Day. Maybe "Rainey" Day made a mistake in giving up beer and black cigars for the love of the Kay Dee songbird.

A HELP WANTED ad from the Kappa House—Since former Kyan Editor Basil Baker and Ralph Carlisle are not in school this year, "Teeny" Cooper is at a loss for escorts. She said, "Get me a man, any man, just one who wears pants." Wednesday, Teeny received an Air Mail letter from Baker, who at the time of writing was trying to cure a cold in the good old college way. We, in the very sad condition also, and "Teeny" was very upset. Then next day she received another Air Mail letter, in which Basil, apologized for the last letter and blamed it on the cold medicine. But still the girl from Georgetown is looking for a fellow.

The Dating Bureau being started by Dot Babbitt, Free Hunter, Ruth Peak, and Tom Spragens should become a very popular thing on the campus. Tried on the campuses of larger colleges the Dating Bureau has swept the country by storm, and is now starting at our fair school. With a little co-operation it could become a very successful enterprise. Especially to fellows like me who have a very hard time trying to get a date.

"Woe is me," is the sigh of Alf Gam Lillian Berry Clark, who is trying so hard to get a date with KA pledge Jack Greenwall, and the best she has been able to do to date is have a date with Jack's best friend.

At Richmond the other nite the romances of ATO, Bud Scott and Freddie Fischer were both with Betty Tapscott. Dancing and talking with first one and then another, both thought that they were the

SIDESHOW
By DON IRVINE

IN NO SINGLE place is a more complete cross-section of campus life exhibited than at a much frequented lunchroom at noon. They are all there: the campus whizzes and the campus p-f-f-t's; the social lions and the social oysters; the brains and the brawn; eating, talking, laughing and smoking with elaborate good-nature, concentrating on the passing moment with intensity.

One Mecca of the hungry in particular seems to present a universal picture, drawn to scale, of collegiate social relations. There the pleasant processes of nourishment and digestion seem to have an immediate segregational effect. The eaters flee with delight to the various groups which formed at five minutes to twelve. Each group is complete within itself and interlopers are regarded much as one regards someone's old aunt when she suddenly appears at a beer party. The personnel seldom changes, and charter members are invariably evident.

For example: The Phi Delt and the Kappas usually settle like a plague of locusts over the lower right hand corner of the seating arrangements. There they exchange gossip and half-sandwiches in thoroughly approved conversational fashion. Lewis Haggin, Herb Hillenmeyer, Bob Houlihan and sundry dozens of their brothers may be viewed regularly five days a week crowding themselves into infinitesimal spaces with Charlotte Briggs, Leigh Brown, Pattie Van Meter and other pylons of the Kappa chapter. In another corner are the Tri Delt, talking to a plentiful peppering of S.A.E.'s. Dot Hillenmeyer, Betty Bakhaus, and Frances Woods are never difficult to locate when this group is complete. In another nook the K.D.'s ensconce themselves with more miscellaneous men from several fraternities. And so it goes. The parties change from time to time, and independents occasionally tread in, but frequently they remain unfurled by the arrival and departure of Outsiders.

With the regularity of Congress, they convene at noon and the air bulges to the rupture-point with conviviality. But there are those who sit alone. Usually they are girls, neither attractive nor unattractive; but to all appearances at least, unknown. Wistfully or resentfully they gaze around them, wishing company but looking ferociously unconcerned about it. With wooden appetites they munch a sandwich, smoke a cigarette and leave. Alone and speechless they sit, left sticking up from the wide expanse of seat around them like forlorn totem-poles. To be solitary in a crowd is painful, to dine alone is more so; and yet they always return. With longing they observe the jovial clusters of humanity to which they are not admitted; yet they do not avoid the place which so steadfastly avoids them. Some odd and pitiful perversion leads them thither each day to sit in an unostentatious corner and watch with hunger the scene enacted.

Most amazing of all these lonely eaters is one, a weirdly incongruous figure in the vigorous setting. She is a belated middle years with a painted face and hair that plainly did not originate with her. Every noonday she sits at the counter or table, target for the secret derision of the merciless. Having eaten, she smokes a cigarette and leaves. But, for what reason does she come, to perch old and gaudy amid the young? What strange and secret psychosis draws her to the counter each day, smiling falsely and wagging her head with its loaf-like bundle of hair? No doubt it is a desperate attempt to recover lost years. Like those other, younger people who sit alone at noon, she seeks only happiness.

Some day, when the campus sideshow has closed for us, perhaps we shall have to resort to the same method, and get drunk at Homecoming.

The much touted romance between Dolores Collins and "Booger" Brown is finally over. However, Dolores is very sentimentally attached to his jeweled pin. Even though they have reached the parting of ways, the badge remains on the dressing table of the lovely KD.

Sigma Chi Al Fulmer tried so hard during rush week to pledge the ugliest freshman on the campus. No one knew why except his fraternity brothers who call Al "Double Ugly." They tell me that this little nickname has Al all up in the air. He just can't tell whether he is handsome or ugly.

A hint to members of SuKy who would like to sell more soft drinks at the football games this fall: At Nashville the soft drink peddlers wandered through the stands yelling, "Chasers for sale, who wants Cokes and Seven Up, Chasers, right here." Not a bad idea at that.

Boys who have dinner dates with Patt Hall girls must be very tight in buying them something to eat. Last week during the rest period from ten until ten thirty, twenty orders from Dunn and twelve from the Cedar Village were delivered. (I think that I will apply for a job as delivery boy at Dunn's.)

While on the subject of Patt Hall, I must admit that I overlooked perhaps the cutest freshman on the campus. Her name is Lelsia Moran and she hails from Ft. Thomas. Waited at the hall until twenty-five after ten, for her to come back from the library, just to see what she looked like.

To those who are going to the Xavier game it would be a good idea to have a special nite spot where UK students will be. Of the many places mentioned, the Topper Ballroom, whose ad is in today's Kernel seems to have the most number of votes. So will see you there Saturday nite.

How would you like to be a radio entertainer? Well the program director of the University radio studios has sounded the call for new talent and will audition anyone who will come to his office with any sign of talent along the lines of radio. So if there is anyone, especially you freshmen, who would like to take an audition, stop in Mr. E. G. Sulzer's office in the basement of the Administration building and he will arrange for a date. You will find Mr. Sulzer a very congenial gentleman and if you have the "stuff" he will give you a break.

Does any one person run a radio network? The answer is a very emphatic no. To start with, there is the President who supervises the entire operation with the aid of a general manager, day and night network managers, engineers, the production staff headed by the chief production manager, the announcing staff, the program director, talent scouts, a staff orchestra and vocalists, and a whole "slew" of commercial managers. There is the lineup, however, the major burden of seeing that the programs go off smoothly rests with the production men. A production man is assigned

Kyian Pictures Give Students Taste Of Hollywood

By LESLIE JONES

Lights! Sound! Camera! Wasn't it hot under those vent lights? My, goodness, your grease paint (pardon me, your make-up) is rapidly disappearing, and what are those tiny beads of water doing on your forehead?

Why, of course, you've just had your picture taken to adorn the pages of the 1937 Kentuckian, and now you know what the movie stars endure to afford you some pleasure, for the 4,000 watt lamps used in photographing the students this year at the University are typical of the dazzling lights used in the studios in Hollywood.

According to Mrs. Long, who for the fifth consecutive year is operating the camera in the basement of Memorial hall, the new vent lights are softer and easier on the subject's eyes. Having graduated from a regular school of photography Mrs. Long has been in the picture-making business for 15 years, and along with her husband grinds away at the movie camera to photograph the loveliness of famous Bluegrass farms in the spring and fall.

Watching Mrs. Long as she dexterously handled the camera and at the same time commanded the student to pose for the picture one realizes that she must have the inherent qualities of a director.

"Laugh, please," she asks, with a merry look in her eyes, and the faintest trace of a laugh back of her command. Asked whether boys or girls were more vain about the results, Mrs. Long declined to say, but ventured this remark, "I'll tell you what, it takes longer to snap the girls than the boys, as they have so much primping to do."

W.A.A. News

The W. A. A. party Tuesday night was definitely a success. Everyone there says so, so therefore it must have been. The largest crowd in the history of the organization attended the first party.

After the introduction of the advisors, officers and managers, a scavenger hunt was held. Articles used in various W. A. A. sports were hidden all over the gym and for about twenty minutes there was a great scurrying and hurrying about while the elusive articles were being sought.

After the scavenger hunt a trucking contest was held. Virginia Way, and Margaret Ellen Smith were the winners of this contest. Then led by Miss Way the Big Apple was done.

By its popularity last night the Big Apple seems to be a great success as it was repeated until everyone was exhausted. Hot doughnuts and fresh cider helped to make this first party a complete success.

At the council meeting Monday afternoon it was announced that hockey will begin at 4 p. m. Monday on the Patterson hall field. Jane Welch is hockey manager and even though you don't know the difference between a hockey stick and a golf club come on out and she will teach you which is which. Dorothy Harris was appointed to the council to take Alice Howry's place because of her absence from school this semester.

Plans were also made at the council meeting for a big dance to be held in the gym sometime in November. Watch for the date and be sure to attend.

Fifty some girls have reported for archery and practice is being held daily at 3:00 p. m. next to the gym.

COHEN RECEIVES DEGREE

Miss Emma Louise Cohen, former pre-medical student at the University, was the lone women member of the class of '31 that received a medical degree at the graduation exercises of the University of Tennessee's medical college at Memphis. Dr. Cohen plans to serve her internship in a St. Louis hospital.

Marjorie Griffin was a guest for dinner Tuesday night. A. L. Atchison was a dinner guest Thursday night.

RECORDINGS FROM SWING TO OPERA MAY BE FOUND IN U. OF K. LIBRARY

By JACK TREADWAY

Now just suppose you are hankering for some select Cab Calloway, a dash of Caruso, or perhaps you would like to commune with Galli Curci and Schumann-Heink—where would you go?

The answer—the University library, generally regarded as the abode of silence, but in this one very surprising instance, the stronghold of all from hi-de-ho to "Il Travatore." Of course, that brings up the matter of the University's musical library, located on the fourth floor of the library building. Five hundred phonographic recordings, ranging from "Minnie the Moocher" to the best of operas, are found in the music room. These records are bound into volumes and are cataloged, making it a simple matter for Miss Fannie Blaine Rutherford, the librarian in charge, to find any selection in the collection in a minimum of time. The reproducing unit, a seven tube, all-electric instrument, is adjustable to the desired tone and volume.

Students and faculty alike are invited to visit the room on any week day from 3 to 5 p.m. or from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening to hear their favorite music. Although the purpose of the music library is to promote a better understanding and appreciation of the classics, there is a good representation of the various types of music, and those who prefer contemporary selections will find a considerable quantity of them available.

This section of the library was made possible by the Carnegie Institute through its representative, Dr. Willen van de Wail, who is at present connected with the music department of the University.

In addition to recordings, there is a wealth of printed matter concerning music; musical dictionaries, biographies, fiction, books of modern music, and operatic scores. Cost of books, recordings, instruments, and equipment for the room is placed at $10,000.

Whether you are hankering for Calloway or Caruso, Goodman or Wagner, you can save that nickel for a "coke and two straws" and take your date to the music library for a serenade of the masters.

Kernel Inaugurates New Campus Coverage System

With this issue of the Kernel, has been inaugurated a new news coverage system under which the Kernel hopes to more fully live up to the motto that it "covers the campus."

Designed by Niel Plummer, assistant professor of journalism, the new system will bring the Kernel into daily contact with every department of the University.

According to Professor Plummer's plan, departments of the University are divided into four groups. Four reporters are on duty in the Kernel news room every morning. Each reporter telephones one of the four groups searching for news.

Tips received over the telephone are turned over to the two news editors, on of whom is on duty each afternoon.

News editors give the tips to general assignment or "leg" men who run down the leads and write the stories. Enough general assignment reporters are kept on hand, especially on press days, but the duties of each are comparatively light.

With reporters and new editors on the job constantly during the earlier part of the day, it is certain that any news called in will be properly and promptly handled.

Kernel news editors expressed a hope that departments of the University would cooperate with the Kernel, so that it may completely, swiftly, and accurately cover campus news.

Horticulture Show Preparations Begin

University horticulture enthusiasts were urged yesterday by W. O. Hubbard, president of the Horticulture club, to begin preparation for the Kentucky horticulture show to be held November 30 and December 1 in Lexington.

The show, to be held in the Phoenix hotel ballroom, is being organized by the University Horticulture club and is under the sponsorship of the state horticulture society.

A catalog of the show is being prepared and will be ready for distribution the latter part of next week. Copies of the catalog and further information concerning the show may be secured from the horticulture office in the Agriculture building.

COWAN LEADER OF YW FROSH DISCUSSION

"Why the Y. W. C. A.?" was the subject of a discussion by the freshman group of the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday afternoon at the Woman's building.

Rae Lewis, chairman of the group, about thirty-five freshman girls, introduced Elizabeth Cowan, Y. W. C. A. secretary, who led the discussion of the afternoon. The purpose of the organization was stated by Anne Lang, president, after which representatives of the Book, Worship, World Fellowship, and Hobby groups outlined their plans for the year to the freshmen.

BULL PEN

By GEORGE H. KERLER

AND TOMORROW it's St. Xavier, a catholic school in Cincinnati which usually has the bruising faculty of putting eleven tough guys afield whenever there is a football game in the vicinity. Wildcats of 1936 vintage will readily attest that though last year's St. X score, 21-0, sounds convincing and soft, that ball game was a thumper from the kickoff to the final toot.

Judging from the vicious scrimmage Coach Wynne has put his Bluegrass Blades through this week, he is evidently not solidly happy over the 'Cats exhibition in Nashville last week. Speaking fundamental football, such as holding the ball and diagnosing plays, I guess Mr. Wynne has the right to feel downcast and retaliative.

I see by the Cincinnati papers that St. Xavier has a cleated thunderbolt again this year. This point alone convinces me that Kentucky will win tomorrow's battle. The Cincy press it seems to me, always has a prize baby, full of championship ability, until it loses once or twice. Then, angry with disappointment, its former praise policy reverts to caustic sarcasm and municipal indignation. Example: The Cincinnati Reds, a baseball team, allegedly in the National League. Early in April the beer metropolis was groggy with pennant gab. Should we enlarge Crosley Field for the World Series? Today read the Red write-ups. The players have degenerated into "Our Boys," lost another close one today by the score of 9-2.

And so this season the Queen City papers have patted and puffed up the X-men to the point of Midwest supremacy. Enshrouded with the press jinx, the Xaviers haven't got a chance.

Naturally, on experience alone, the Kentuckys ought to take tomorrow's tussle. We have been through one major engagement in which things turned out lamentably but not 100 percent discouragingly. We still have a ball club that has lost the line since the initial practice. It has arsenals of scrap in it and sometime before long it's going to get hot for about 30 minutes. When it does you're going to see some sensational grid tricks and gallantry.

On the other bench, the Saints have played our Transylvania neighbors, routing them by some thirty points. So as yet, the Cincinnati boys haven't had a mouthful of real rough football. This counts decisively in our favor. A guy who had a date with Gypsy Rose Lee would feel rather mature around a coed.

Our Nashville starting line-up may undergo revolutionary changes for the Musketeer mazaruka. You might see McCubbin at right end, Harry Brown at tackle, and Bob Hall at guard. Joe Shepherd has been doing plenty of quarterbacking, and considering Bob Davis' leg damage, you might see Dee Davis replacing brother Joe in the field. Whitley Hodge, who gave a laudable account of himself in the Vandy sloppiness, may wind up starting at fullback. These revisions are purely conjectural even though Wynne has used them frequently in the starting practice eleven this week.

In the report of the Kentucky-Vandy game under this by-line last Tuesday, Walter Hodge was said to have fumbled at the start of the second half, the Commodores recovering and going, with dispatch, to a touchdown. Hodge did not fumble. The play was a reverse, Davis to Hodge. The ball coming from center struck Bob Davis in the face and Hodge coming across made fruitless effort to seize the ball.

If last week's predictions mean anything, I should have learned my lesson. Out of seven forecasts only three turned out as prophesized. Two of them were locks, Alabama-Howard and Indiana-Centre. And little can be said for the genius required to pick Louisiana State over Florida.

Despite my shortcomings in this subject here goes the way things will turn out this week-end.

pachyderm, is an acceptable answer to a coach's tackle prayer.

Veteran Joe Bosse will man-handle the other tackle post and Garland, who played excellently against the Commodores, and Capt. Joe Hagan will man the flanks. Sherman Hinklebein will be in there making the fans forget about, temporarily, the defense work of the diplomaed Gene Myers.

Three Cincy sports writers concur on the statement that Xavier will beat Kentucky. But the Fountain Square Boys are usually patriotic about home clubs.

Nevertheless, tomorrow's game is a natural. And again, many Kentucky fans will voyage up the Big City to "nibble" small portions of those 2-1 odds.

Kyian Picture Schedule Released

Kentuckian pictures will continue to be taken the rest of this week and all next week. Students are requested to cooperate by complying with the following schedule:

Friday: Phi Delta Theta, Chi Omega, Kappa Alpha, Saturday morning: Juniors and seniors. Monday, October 4: Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Zeta, Triangles. Tuesday: Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Delta Theta, Alpha Gamma Rho. Wednesday: Sigma Chi, Alpha Xi Delta, Sigma Nu. Thursday: Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Delta Delta. Friday: Juniors and seniors. Saturday: Juniors and seniors. Pictures will be taken through October 10 only, and every organization requires that an individual print be made.

XAVIER GAME BRINGS REUNION IN CINCINNATI FOR 6 WILDCATS

By TOM WATKINS

When Coach Chet Wynne's Wildcats meet the rollicking Musketeers from Xavier on Corcoran Field Saturday, Cincinnati rooters will have a chance for a reunion with some old friends. Some of the 'Cat grid-men are those boys who thrilled the Queen City fans on the high school gridirons of northern Kentucky and southern Ohio several years ago.

Bob Davis, Harold Black, and Dameron Davis will be objects of interest at this game, as Cincinnati fans know them. Bob and Dameron appeared before the public several years ago, representing the high school of their home town, Dayton. Black is a former star of Holmes High in Covington.

Even more interesting to the Queen City fans than the Davis brothers and Black are the players on the Wildcat squad who represent Cincinnati herself. Bob Sherman, a former Roger Bacon High grid luminary, will probably see plenty of action in this game, as will Joe Bosse, one of the former Roger Bacon stars. Wilce Carnes sophomore fullback, may not appear before his home town fans, as he is still suffering from a cracked rib. The players themselves are not the only ones who will enjoy a reunion Saturday. Coach Chet Wynne of the Wildcats did a lot of full-backing for Knute Rockne in the early 1920's. A few years later, the same Knute Rockne produced, at the same school, Notre Dame, a team that boasted of a backfield called the "Four Horsemen." These four thoroughbreds galloped through holes in the line made by their own linemen who were in their turn known as the "Seven Mules." One of these "Mules" was Clem Crowe, who now is one of the outstanding advocates of the Rockne system, and who is also coach of the Xavier Musketeers. No doubt many old times will be reviewed by Coach Wynne and Crowe, and Lina Coach Tommy Gorman of the Wildcats, also a former Notre Dame man.

Concert Tickets Are Now Available

A limited number of tickets for the community concert series may be secured from the office of Miss Sarah Blanding, dean of women. The cost of the tickets are five dollars each, plus an eighty cent tax.

Artists and the dates that they will appear on the concert programs follow. Noveas, the Brazilian pianist, November 5; Jooss, European ballet, November 12; Katherine Meisle, soprano, January 11; Berrere-Britt, concertina, February 11, and John Charles Thomas, singer, February 25.

McVey Hall Archaeologist Limns Fossils In Lockers

By ALICE WOOD BAILEY
"Any old rags, any old bones, any old bottles!" That is the way the adage goes as describing the junk men of old, but the saying might well be changed to "Any old mags, any old books, any old bottles," if applied to conglomeration of articles found in more than a dozen lockers in the basement of McVey hall last Wednesday.

Locks on these unclaimed vaults were saved in half and the contents that were taken from them revealed that many had not been opened since as early as 1932, and others, although they had been opened more recently, still contained papers — mainly, Kentucky Kernels — that bore dates of the year 1931.

It was amusing to watch the expressions of George, colored custodian of McVey hall basement, as he swept up the curious collection of old clothes, papers, placards, and pamphlets, stooping to pick up a pair of girl's galoshes and a black wig.

One locker gave birth to four neckties, a pair of gloves, three cans of paint, two paint brushes, and a manuscript for a Stroller production of a few years ago, "Old Kentucky Minstrel Show."

In locker No. 13 was found—and quite appropriately—a crutch, the aftermath of some one's mishap. Two pair of men's socks, a man's garter, a lady's hat, a Bunsen burner, a French curve, a bottle of ink, a bar of soap, three rulers, a graduation collar, and a war map were a few of the other peculiar remnants of bygone days.

Evidently someone, back in 1933, brought their lunch to school, neatly wrapped in oil paper and tied with a string, and forgot to eat it; for that is what was found in the bottom of one of the lockers, hidden beneath a stack of physics manuals, bacteriology notes, an ROTC manual and numerous Kentucky Kernels, yellowed with age.

Programs, handbooks and placards were in abundance. One sign read: "VOTE INDEPENDENT FOR OPAL HUDDLE FOR MAY QUEEN" and had her backers names at the bottom. Another was advertising a Leap Year dance in 1932 given by Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity for women, calling it a "Last Chance" ball. SUKY programs for May Day, 1933 and Guignol programs for the production of "Alas, Poor Yorick" were found together in one locker.

Almost as interesting as the excavations of geologists when discovering the remains of a pre-historic animal, or the explorations of the archaeologists in the ancient Egyptian tombs, was the excavation of these dozen lockers to the journalism department and those who witnessed it.

Frank Fowler Chides His Cast Into Perfection

By JANE LEVI
Frank Fowler, Guignol's Louis B. Mayer, Frank Capra, and Mervyn LeRoy combined, is once more springing lightly over the Guignol boards. The play in progress is "First Lady." It's Frank Fowler's meat and he's chewing it gustily. With vim and vigor he ran the members of the cast through their lines the other night. When one of them complained of an overwhelming desire to laugh instead of being hateful to Doctor Dantzler, playing the part of a supreme court member, he giggled with her and left us wondering what will happen if the player has the same impulse on the opening night.

The lines went smoothly with Fowler either tilted back in his chair or leaning forward in deep concentration with his hands between his knees. But allow one subtle interpretation to be missed and the director was at the side of the offender, explaining either amusingly or gently just what it was he wanted.

He does the lines of the feminine members of the cast with trills and tra la's, capturing the very essence. His "Oh my, oh my, oh my," done in an offhand, sarcastic manner, indicates the exact mood required in a scene.

Air-Minded Students To Follow 'Cats By Plane

How can you go to the Xavier-U. K. tilt tomorrow afternoon? "Go by plane," suggests the four shadow cast members, Jessie Sadler, Jodie Halcomb, and Billy Keaton.

Last Saturday afternoon these four air-minded Wildcat rooters cast their shadows on Nashville soil, and now with one pleasant experience behind them, they are flying to Cincy tomorrow to view the second Wildcat clash of the season.

Despite the rainy weather and the game with Vanderbilt last Saturday afternoon, the men report that it won't be long until following the home team by plane will be "all the rage."

"What I mean to tell you is that it was really smooth," says Billy Keaton when describing his last week's trip to Nashville. "It was tough luck about the game, and I didn't enjoy sitting in a pressing shop for two hours, while my water soaked clothes were dried out, but with the aid of a little 'chill tonic,' I managed to survive without a cold."

And so the four shadows are planning to shove off for Cincinnati tomorrow.

Professor Barnett Resumes Tasks Here

Brinkley Barnett, professor of electrical engineering, has resumed his duties at the University after a year leave of absence. He spent the time in the study of electrical engineering under Prof. R. W. Sorensen and Prof. F. C. Lindvall at the California Institute of Technology.

Among the points of interest included in their tour were Zion Park, Grand Canyon, Glacier National Park, Yellowstone National Park, and Dam.

Militarists Have Last Laugh On Journalist

By CARL EDWARDS
And now the military department laughs.

Sid Buckley, junior journalism student, conceived an idea about how to get out of drilling. He went to the proper authorities, proved that he had been born in Canada and that he had never been naturalized. Of course they couldn't make a British subject drill, could they?

Doghouse Imminent For Scribes Who Fizzle At Covering News

By JOHN WILKERSON
"Who knows anything about Graves County?" "Where in the world is Johnson County?" These, and other similar inquiries are often floating around in the midst of the members of the advanced reporting class, who have had new problems heaped on their heads in the shape of a number of counties, the papers of said counties being the goal of these budding writers, who will attempt to bring to the sheets back home the news of what goes on behind the walls of that celebrated institution, the University of Kentucky.

This diabolical scheme had its origin in the mind of professor Niel Plummer, and it consists in having the members of the class select a group of four counties, papers of which are each to be sent reams of copy dealing with some aspect or other of the University that pertains to the county in question.

The recipients of any such copy are supposed to gratefully print any amount of journalistic phooey that records the doings of little Elmer, the pride and joy of Sand Gap, who is the seventy-fifth applicant for water boy on the football squad. If you send in twenty-five column inches ye shall be graded.

The lucky ones are those who have chosen a county that has at least three papers (four is par) because one item may be published

Sid's elation at the success of his clever scheme has somewhat tempered,—rawthah—for he has received a bill of $65 for back tuition and has learned that for a non-citizen the fees are higher. The cleverly conceived idea will cost him $104 extra for his four years in school.

Knowing that Sid's home is at Sturgis, Kentucky, we asked him how long he had been living there and how it happened that he had never become a citizen of the United States.

"We have lived there for the past 11 years," he answered, "however, my father chooses to remain a British subject and since I am still a minor I have to be what my father is."

"One hundred and four dollars is a mighty expensive price to pay for the privilege of not having to drill isn't it Sid?"

To which he answered philosophically, "Oh well, they would have found it out sooner or later anyway."

Do your work NOW. Idlers work "later."
